NO MORE CARNIVALS

Salem residents have been waiting a long time for the announcement made this week by Mayor Phillips—No more carnivals. That is not meant to imply that they have not been patronizing these summer attractions; they have patronized them by the hundreds year after year. They have enjoyed some clean entertainment, and they also have squandered their money on cheap amusements and cheap articles under the spell of bright lights, milling crowds and blatant hawkers. Worst of all, they have lost their money on gambling games that never offered them a sporting chance.

Through all of these experiences they have hoped for a banning order that would save them from their own gullibility. That order has come, after several sad and costly experiences at the carnival grounds in this city last week. Through the efforts of the chief of police and the mayor, several hundred dollars in gambling losses were salvaged, the gambling games were closed and the edict of no more carnivals was issued.

Mayor Phillips has had all the trouble with carnivals that he wants and he doesn't propose to go through last week's nightmare again. It is to be hoped the lesson will not be lost to future mayors of Salem.

LOWDOWN FOR STANLEY HIGH

Converts to Wendell Wilkie have borrowed an idea from the Oxford movement. As each one swings into step he confesses publicly how he happened to get back on the main track after wandering in the wilderness.

Stanley High, articulate publicist of Rooseveltism in some of its earlier manifestation, has spoiled his confession by propounding a quibble. He tells Mr. Wilkie he is joining the "increasing company of non-Republicans who have pledged their aid to your campaign"—but doesn't explain how a Wilkie supporter can be a non-Republican.

The 1940 election will mark a new party division in the United States. The New Deal bloc's obvious strategy is to complete capture of the Democratic party's name, the solid south and its big city machines by driving Jefferson Democrats into the Republican party. The latter, having gone through the wringer of two crushing defeats and with its presidential nomination seized by an outsider who owes no thing to any of the party bosses, has nothing left of its former self but its name and the good will of non-Rooseveltians, among them Mr. Stanley High.

This would make a meaty subject for him to explore in one of his excellent magazine articles. He might even be able to make clear to the solid southerners that Abraham Lincoln was assassinated April 4, 1865, and that the party which was good enough for grandpa has been trampled to death by a Trojan horse.

BEANSHOOTERS AND A STRAW MAN

Deepest mystery in the public eye today is Col. Lindbergh's uncanny ability to produce hot and cold flashes in the Roosevelt administration. Every time he opens his mouth he creates an oratorical emergency in Washington. Sen. Jimmy Byrnes was turned loose on him once. Sen. Joe Pittman mowed him down time before last. Apparently tired of halfway measures, four New Dealers unlimbered their beanshooters and worked out on the colonel after his latest speech.

This is puzzling. Col. Lindbergh continues to be an excellent aviator; if he has any popular following as a statesman, aside from what he can muster by his flying fame, no one knows anything about it. It's hard to understand why the high-priced help of the inner circle crowd should be spending their time demolishing a straw man. If they want to get hot and boistered they could find more provocation in almost any barbershop with more than one chair.

As far as that's concerned, it's even hard to see what there is about the colonel's remarks to write home about. He has said, in effect, that the United States someday may have to tool along in this world without the now highly valued sympathy and suzerainty of the British empire and should be taking some thought in advance of what's going to be done about it. If there's anything in that thought so startling that Americans simply can't face it, perhaps it's time for them to step to one side and listen to some of the facts of life.

TWO-WAY POLICE RADIO

More than a year ago the Salem police department asked city council to appropriate money for a police radio system. Councilmen were not impressed with the necessity, in fact they regarded the expenditure of some $2,000 for this purpose as a luxury that could not be justified.

Tuesday night the present councilmanic body listened to a new proposal on the same subject. The cost is down to $1,100, but the city is not asked to appropriate that amount. Business men and manufacturers are sufficiently interested to contribute the purchase price if council will agree to take care of a small maintenance cost. If the system is worth anything, it should be worth that much of the city's money.

Other cities in the county are preparing to tie in with a county-wide police radio system—Wellsville already has the system in use and the county commissioners have set up a fund for the county's share. With such a hook-up to receive and dispatch calls, almost immediate help could be summoned in the event of major crimes. From a strictly local standpoint, the system would permit the police cruiser to increase its scope of patrol duties and at the same time keep the officers in constant touch with police headquarters.

Larger cities have been using this system to great advantage for some time. It seems like a worthy undertaking for Salem. The only objection is that private funds will be required to buy the equipment. No city money is available at the moment, but the importance of better police protection for the city should justify the inclusion of this comparatively small item in the next budget.

THE STARS SAY:

For Friday, August 9

ACCORDING to the lunar transits, social, domestic or affectional matters will engage paramount attention. Other affairs are adversely affected. There is menace of fraud, duplicity as well as loss through careless signatures. Reckless or drastic action may bring considerable penalty. In difficulties or tight financial crises it is probable that feminine generosity will come to the fore. But parties, festivities and sentimental values are uppermost.

Those whose birthday it is may have a more pleasant than prosperous year. The attention may be devoted to celebrations, sentimental attachments or good times generally. Business is jeopardized by fraud, treachery, careless signatures and documents, and also by rash and impractical moves. Study correspondence lest there be misconception and trouble. Be discreet in group action.

A child born on this day may be disposed to stretch the truth or exhibit other forms of duplicity or "shrewdness," to its detriment. But it will be socially gracious, refined, and lovable.

Germany delays attacking Britain, says the Italian press, because of Adolf's humanitarian feelings. That fine impulse is one he cultivated since crushing of all those countries, we suppose.

There is one foreign-born party in this country who, we are sure, will never want to go back where she came from. We are thinking of the Statue of Liberty.

Well, anyway, one thing everybody was wondering about some months ago has been settled: Hitler wasn't bluffing.

A lot of observers regard the new French regime as Vichyous.

Menus For Hot Weather

Fruits and Vegetables Ideal Summer Food

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

SALADS are good dishes to depend on in hot weather, and to build up your resistance for the fall and winter season. Salads alone make a good hot weather meal.

The foods which go into salads are unadulterated and not easily spoiled, and contain many necessary nutritious ingredients.

All nutrition experts emphasize the necessity of a generous supply of vegetables and fruits. The vegetables and fruits are the most important sources of iron to the body and if we limit them we cause a certain sluggishness of blood formation and an entire lack of reserve iron such as is normally found in the liver, spleen and bone marrow of healthy, well nourished individuals.

Extra Iron

In a study of an experimental dietary reported by Dr. H. C. Sherman of Columbia University, New York City, found that a free use of vegetables, whole wheat bread and the cheaper sorts of fruits with milk and eggs resulted in a gain of thirty per cent in the iron content of the diet, while the protein and fuel value remained practically the same as in the mixed and more expensive diets obtained under the same market conditions.

The effect of apples on the absence of the medical profession is no mere superstition. Growth promoting Vitamin A is abundant in certain vegetables—such as spinach, carrots, corn, cabbage, brussels sprouts, peas and watercress. In their raw state they contain the scurvy-preventing vitamin C. Vegetables and fruits tend to counteract acidity. Calcium used in bone building is abundant in peas and beans and the leaves of plants. Sodium, potassium, iron, phosphorus and sulphur—necessary minerals for the body—are found in the root vegetables. Some recipes for summer vegetables containing all these nutrient ingredients are:

GREENLAND IN NEED OF FOOD

Isolated Danish Colony Takes Precautions Against Famine

WASHINGTON—Greenland is expected to become more and more dependent upon the United States during the coming months.

Germany's invasion of Denmark has brought the isolated island to the verge of possible famine, according to Gov. Eske Brun of North Greenland, who came here to arrange for purchase of foodstuffs and a 25 per cent return for the sale of Greenland's products. He declared that an economic crisis was faced and that famine might follow unless greater quantities of food could be imported.

Maurice Reddy of the Red Cross disaster relief staff, who was sent to Greenland immediately following subjugation of Denmark to survey the needs, outlined the situation on his return. He reported that Greenland had enough food to last 12 months, or perhaps longer, if the government ordered a rationing system.

Depended On Denmark

Greenland formerly depended entirely upon Denmark for all of its food supplies except fish and meat. All negotiations for trade were conducted by a special government agency which sent several ships a year to the colony with food. Owing to the difficulty of getting to the island at times, caution was taken to insure sufficient stocks by storing enough to last several months. This precaution has been of great help to Greenland in recent weeks.

While native hunters and fishermen supplied all fish and meat needs, it was necessary for Greenland to import approximately $600,000 worth of food and various other supplies each year, exporting in return about $200,000 worth of goods, exclusive of its main product—cryolite—of which it shipped approximately $2,000,000 annually. The United States took $1,000,000 worth of the cryolite for use in aluminum industries where it forms a valuable agent in separating aluminum from bauxite.

To Deposit Dollars

To assure a continuous food supply in the future, Gov. A. Svane of Greenland has decided that the cryolite—all of it—shall be sold in the United States for American dollars to be deposited here for future purchases.

To expedite these purchases, a Danish-Greenland commission was formed recently with headquarters in New York. It will work out all necessary arrangements of purchases and shipping facilities.

The cryolite mine is owned jointly by the Danish government and by private investors who live in Denmark. Reddy said he gained the impression that the Greenland Danes—"a thoroughly honest and conscientious group"—would see to it that the rights of absentee owners are respected and cared for. Svane, he said, intends to take over the mine for a temporary period, a move amounting to a temporary expropriation.

CHAPTER ONE

Just why did I have to quarrel with Tex today of all days? Judith Ames kept asking herself the question helplessly. She sat very straight in her seat high up in the press stand, back of the boxes at the Cleveland Airport. And she was glad she was wearing dark glasses, for the tears would come suddenly when Tex's friends stopped to speak to her about his ship. Now the army was "up." Fifty strong the boys from Selfridge in their low winged ships wheeled and flashed in the afternoon sun. The roar of their motors synchronized into a deep throat as they began a long drive in formation on the field. Then they were up against the sun. Judith blotted out in a blaze of glory. Just for a moment Judith forgot her own troubles. The huge crowd cheered. They were magnificent! "Nothing can happen, can it," Judith? The slender girl sitting beside Tex Ames' wife caught at her sleeve. There was desperate appeal in Elsie's Stone's voice. Judith knew quite well the deep terror

"What's that?" "Another race before ours." "But, suppose Marvin shouldn't place in the money. We've taken every cent we could borrow to put into this ship." "He'll be in the money. There are a lot of prizes," Judith answered curtly. Money! Judith wanted to scream out at her: "What is money when you may see him killed before your very eyes?" Instead, she introduced Holt to Marvin Stone's wife. Lee grinned down at Judith, feasting his eyes on her cool delicate profile. How game she was! What a thoroughbred! "How about a cup of coffee, Beautiful?" "I was wondering where you were," Then to Elsie: "If Lee didn't have his cup of coffee with me before a race he swears he wouldn't win." "I wouldn't. Come along, I've got about twenty minutes before I have to get back to the ship." Eager to escape from Elsie for a

Judith was uneasy. She could read Lee so easily. Suddenly she was desperately afraid. "There isn't anything wrong with the ship, is there?" "Of course not. It was purring like a kitten when I left. Lem was nursing it." "And Tex seemed all right?" "Never better! You know Tex. Not a nerve in his body! Acted as though he was thinking about taking you out to celebrate." "I'm such a fool about Tex," Judith's sudden relief hurt her it was so violent. (To be continued)

Bride-Elect Honored At Shower Here

A magazine show given by Miss Betty Miller last evening at her home on S. Lincoln ave., honored Miss Julia Bodo, whose marriage to Lon E. Aucker of Hempstead, L. I., will be an event of Saturday.

Games were enjoyed during the evening. Mrs. A. V. Henning and Miss Viola Bodo won prizes.

The hostess served lunch at a table centered with garden flowers. Attractive favors were miniature cellophane and silver planes filled with candy.

Hats for autumn are gay and youthful, but not the dizzy type which draws hoots from the menfolk. They take into consideration, too, the new pompadour hair styles. Ida Lupino chooses a pert Scotch cap of bottle green felt with embroidery motif of bold thread. Olivia De Havilland selects a wine red and powder blue felt, the smartly dipping brim faced with powder blue suede and with a simulated quill. Anne Shirley's chapeau looks like a college mortar board, and is of black felt with a wide band of grosgrain ribbon.

Today's Pattern

This spirited "two-timing" shirt-waist style, designed by Anne Adams, makes either a waist-and-skirt OR a one-piece dress. You'll probably want both versions of Pattern 4511, for wardrobe variety. Make the one-piece style in rayon or the silk. Then, for the jaunty two-piece style, let the tucked-in or over-blouse top be of brilliant wool, with a skirt of darker velvet. Soft gathers below the front and back yokes give the new bloused silhouette to the top. There's a guileless young Peter Pan collar in self fabric or contrast, and either full, long sleeves or short sleeves. The two-piece skirt is in the narrower, straighter lines forecast for Fall.

Pattern 4511 is available in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16, entire ensemble, takes 3 3/4 yards 39 inch fabric.

BRICKER SEEKS 2 MORE YEARS

It'll Take That Long, Says Governor, to Pay Debts Inherited From Former Officials

AKRON, Aug. 8.—Gov. John W. Bricker wants two more years in office "to put Ohio on a sound business basis."
"It will take that long to pay the debts inherited from the last administration," the governor told Summit county Republicans at their annual picnic here last night.

The Republican nominee for reelection shared the speaker's platform with Mayor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland, the party's candidate for U. S. senator.

Appearing earlier at a citizenship day picnic at Chippewa lake, Bricker asserted it would be necessary "to arouse the patriotism of every American citizen in order to bring this country to a complete and adequate preparation for defense."

"A spiritual defense against insidious foreign philosophies as well as a military defense will be necessary to keep alive the American form of government in a world hostile to the ideals of liberty, justice and freedom," he said.

Bricker called for education of American youth "to values and principles of democracy" and for trades of defense industries.

The citizenship day picnic was arranged by state employees from Medina, Ashland, Richland, Crawford, Erie, Huron and Wayne counties.

Enlistment is Hit By Buckeye C. of C.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 8.—The Ohio Chamber of Commerce today urged Ohio's congressional delegation to support the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory military training bill on the ground that voluntary army system of army enlistment is "cruel, unjust and undemocratic."

George B. Chandler, the chamber's executive vice president observing that possibly only one Ohioan would vote for conscription, said "this is a disheartening report from the state of Grant, Sherman and Sheridan."

"The volunteer system is cruel, unjust and undemocratic," he added. "It picks off the fit, the willing and the gallant. It puts them in the front line while the sluggards are back home. It might also deplete our industries by taking away some of the star workmen."

WAR OBSERVERS PRAISE POLAND

Revise Opinions of Army After Downfall of France

Since then the Poles' discipline, cleanliness, morale and comradeship have won them many friends. Some Swiss, including a Swiss visitor to internment camps in the Basler Nachrichten, found that the French brought along "some of the decaying smell of social and political disintegration." Those French were not peacetime soldiers.

The Poles, a proud lot, range in age between 17 and 22.
Originally many Polish units were placed in towns with French units, but while the French considered the war ended and only wanted to get back home, the Poles wanted to fight somewhere, anywhere and the two nationalities had to be separated.

Both the Poles and the Swiss authorities would like to know where they go from here.

URNS TO SOIL INSTEAD OF OIL

Oklahoma First In U. S.
For Conservation
Projects

OKLAHOMA CITY.—The topsoil of Oklahoma farmlands once again is attracting major interest in this state where for 25 years the magic power of oil has dominated the economic stage.

This year, as never before in Oklahoma history, federal, state and independent agencies are concentrating on the improvement of agriculture.

The Federal government, pouring in millions of dollars for its crop control, loan and farm rehabilitation policies, now has added an intensive soil conservation program to its campaign for betterment of farm conditions.

Last autumn the WPA and the U. S. Soil Conservation Service inaugurated their joint soil conservation program in Oklahoma, which today leads the country in the number of soil conservation districts. It was considered a logical starting place.

In 1889, nearly 100,000 homeseekers rushed across the Oklahoma borders to stake out farms on the prairie soils of a new territory. The land was rich, unbroken by plow.

Soil Worn Out

A few years ago geographers estimated that Oklahoma farmlands were in a worse condition than those of neighboring — and older states. Intensive cultivation and lack of protective care for the soil was the cause, they said.

Recently, Dr. W. C. Loudermilk, assistant chief of the soil conservation service, estimated that 13,000,000 of Oklahoma's 16,000,000 acres of cultivated land had suffered excessive damage from erosion.

The elements were partly responsible. It was pointed out, Oklahoma, a state of extreme climatic conditions, is alternately a victim of drought heavy winds that scroop up the soil, and torrential rains.

More than 2,000,000 acres are considered damaged beyond restoration within the next few generations. More than 82,725 farms — estimating the average farm at 160 acres — have been ruined for productive purposes.

"It is a sad commentary on man's stewardship of the earth," observed the soil expert.

Oil Production Drops

The decline of oil production is playing an important part in the rejuvenation of agriculture in this state, many persons believe.

Farmers, merchants and bankers are looking forward to the day when the last of the state's oil fields will have been tapped. The fabulous boom days of the 1920s already are a part of the past.

Farmers are getting down to farming instead of wishing for oil wells on their land," says Oliver

Rescue Girl Mountain Climber

Finally reached by a rescue party after she had lain injured on a ledge 8,000 feet up the steep slope of Mount Shuksan in Washington for nearly 24 hours, Miss Anne Cedarquist, indicated by arrow, is shown in this International Illustrated News photograph as she was about to be lowered from her precarious perch by rescuers. Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up at night. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.
